

LETTER TO FUTURE SELF (JUNE 2026):

I want you to remember how hard you have worked to get to this point in your life. The times where you were stressed over tests and assignments but that didn't stop you from powering through and getting it done. The little things made a huge difference in what you are going to become and strive to be. I hope you've kept your values and integrity strong and found ways to power through tough days. When the time comes for you to leave school I hope you have what you want to do figured out and know how to do it properly. I hope that you have built things in your life that will help you thrive and do well. You stay close to the people that you like and don't interact with bad people. No matter where you are headed or even if you don't know, remember who you are at that moment and how far you have come.
